

Trans and Gender Diverse People's Health Care Experiences

Barriers to Timely, Safe, and Affirming Care

Findings from the TRANSform
Australian national trans health survey

Key Findings

A total of 807 trans and gender diverse people completed this 2024 Australian national survey. In the previous 12 months:

1 in 2 (57%)

reported one or more type of trans-related discrimination by a health care professional.

1 in 3 (40%)

had delayed seeking health care, due to anticipated trans-related discrimination.

4 in 5 (81%)

"agreed" or "strongly agreed" that they had access to a health care professional who was actively supportive of their trans experience.

Recommendations

Public health strategies to target trans health disparities.

Governments must commit to reducing health disparities experienced by trans and gender diverse communities, including:

Strategies to reduce discrimination, abuse, and violence against trans and gender diverse people, as a driver of health disparities.

Establish and bolster trans and LGBTIQ+ community-controlled health services.

Trans-inclusive health care training and services.

All trans and gender diverse people should have safe and affirming health care experiences, achieved through inclusion of:

- Trans and gender diverse health in university health-related curriculums.
- Trans and gender diverse people as a priority group in health services and program strategies, policies, and trans health staff training.

Trans-inclusive research and evaluation.

All health and medical research should be inclusive of trans and gender diverse people, as recommended by the ABS (<https://bit.ly/abs-guidelines>), NHMRC/MRFF (<https://bit.ly/nhmrc-guidelines>), and Trans Health Research guidelines (<https://www.transresearch.org.au/professional/including>).

"Two different male GPs laughed at me, refused to treat me, asked sexually inappropriate questions, and told me that seeking hormones/surgery was wrong."
-Kalvin, trans man.

"Living rural I struggle to find a GP who is willing to learn and work with me as a trans patient. I put off going to the GP and seeking medical treatment."
-Raphael, trans man.

"I am consistently misgendered. I do not feel confident to correct the staff as I'm afraid of potential repercussions, such as reduced quality of care."
-Jaz, non-binary.

Full Report

<https://bit.ly/healthcare-26>

Facebook: @TransHealthResearch
Instagram: @transhealthresearch

Email:
transform-research@unimelb.edu.au